

Hyland for Workday 2.0

Improve content management and deliver a better user experience

Workers in human resources and finance departments spend a lot of time in their organization's human capital management (HCM) or enterprise resource planning (ERP) systems. One catch: These systems often focus on managing records and data, not content.

As a result, users leave these core applications to find documents and supporting information. Doing so disrupts workflows and leads to lost time and process inefficiencies.

Enhance the value of your Workday solution

Hyland for Workday provides content management capabilities directly from the user's preferred Workday solution. The solution integrates with Workday Human Capital Management and Finance, improving the user experience and supplying document capture, indexing, a content viewer and other capabilities.

Now with Hyland for Workday 2.0, users benefit from a unified integration that supports both Hyland OnBase and Hyland Content Innovation Cloud™ — delivering scalable, cloud-native content services optimized for intelligent search, governance and future AI automation.

How it works

Hyland for Workday is an approved Built on Workday application. It leverages Workday foundational technology components that have been reviewed by Workday for consistency with Workday's best-practice design guidelines.

Hyland for Workday displays content from Hyland's enterprise content platform while users are in Workday. The cloud-based solution enables users to capture, view and manage documents within Hyland's enterprise content platform through the Workday HCM or Finance user interface.

With version 2.0, the integration transforms employee and financial documents into an AI-ready collection, structured for intelligent search, contextual insights and automated governance across Workday business objects.

Key features and benefits

Consistent user experience: Workers don't need to leave familiar systems to find information in another application or unfamiliar content repository. Hyland for Workday embeds content access directly into Workday screens — reducing friction and improving productivity.

Better employee experiences: Staff want easy and intuitive access to information, when and where they need it. Hyland for Workday provides that and gives users tools to process information at each stage of the employee life cycle.

Cost savings: By allowing users to manage content directly within Workday applications, the solution helps reduce costs for ongoing maintenance and support. Whether it's improving invoice processes, reducing the time needed to onboard and train employees or eliminating the need for custom application development, Hyland for Workday delivers benefits across the entire organization. Version 2.0 also supports multitenant SaaS deployment, lowering infrastructure costs and simplifying upgrades.

Easy capture: Users need minimal clicks to capture documents in Workday. Once they do, they can quickly add metadata to support multiple retrieval options. Documents are automatically structured for intelligent search and downstream AI workflows.

Improved sharing: Users can link a document to multiple Workday entities and platforms, then view it across all areas of the business. This supports cross-functional visibility and enables contextual insights across HR and finance.

Mobile access: Via Workday's cloud platform, users can access documents from anywhere. Hyland's cloud-native architecture ensures secure, scalable access for hybrid and remote teams.

Don't be content with limited content management

Hyland, a Workday Select Partner, offers a Workday-certified accounts payable solution that is integrated with Workday Financials. We also introduced Hyland Direct Spend Matching for Workday, which provides a complete view of direct spend to procurement organizations.

Our newest Workday integration, Hyland for Workday 2.0, is ideal for organizations whose HR or finance systems have limited content management capabilities. Hyland for Workday leverages the power of Hyland and Workday to manage content and streamline processes — while delivering a consistent, familiar user experience.
